CULTURE THROUGH CUISINE

Entrepreneur.

Gina Keatley is an esteemed authority on the subject of nutrition and the culinary arts. She specializes in understanding culture through cuisine. When Gina isn't working on TV food segments, she is giving out tasty treatment to her patients at Keatley Medical Nutrition Therapy or slicing into culinary culture as a university professor. Her most recent adventure includes her new position as CEO for Sicilian Olive Leaf Tea Company launching 2022.

Media Host.

Her passion for nutrition brought her to health media; contributing to media outlets such as Food Network, ABC, Fox, Bravo and many more.

She hosted Healthy Soul for Uncanned Productions for four seasons. In addition she hosted Deliciously Diverse: Malaysia, a culinary expedition designed to embrace new foods and to "Be Fearless, Be Full". In 2017, Amazon Prime picked up Deliciously Diverse Malaysia in the US/UK from 2017 to 2021. It is presently available on Amazon Prime Japan in Japanese. She has begun development of Italian Again for launch in 2022.

In addition to her television work, Gina's wellness contributions include Yahoo!, Good Housekeeping, Prevention, Cosmopolitan, ELLE and O, The Oprah Magazine.

Dietitian.

As a Certified Dietitian-Nutritionist and Certified CBT Therapist she holds an MBA in Healthcare, BS in Nutrition from New York University, a degree in Culinary Arts and continuing professional education from Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health and certification from The Academy of Cognitive & Behavioral Therapies. A professor herself, she now teaches International Cuisine at The City University of New York, the largest urban university system in the United States.

In 2017, Gina joined the NESTLÉ® USA family as a spokesperson for Balance Your Plate. This educational campaign helps consumers to build nutritious, delicious, and convenient meals that meet the Dietary Guidelines.

Digital Developer.

Until 2021 Gina was immersed in the world of digital publishing as the creative director, of Tasty Bytes Magazine, a food and tech magazine that offered its readers a 2.0 look at gastronomy.

Additionally, Gina dabbles in digital photography with two books to her name: Dogs of Delhi: A photographic journey of must love metropolitan mutts and Cats of Taiwan: A Photographic Journey of Taiwan's Cat Village.
